

The Setup Tool

This section explains how to use the Setup Tool to configure and maintain settings crucial to the proper functioning of XperienCentral channels(s). You can perform tests, maintain database connections, and install updates as well as import and export content. Typical users of the Setup Tool are application managers and developers. See also Channel Configuration for information on configuring settings that only apply to a specific XperienCentral channel.

- Some of the default values for settings configurable in the Setup Tool should not be changed. If you are unsure what the value for a specific setting should be, contact your GX Software consultant.
- See also Channel Configuration for information about configuring other global XperienCentral settings.

To access the Setup Tool, navigate to the following URL in your browser:

<xperiencentral-server>/web/setup

Log in using your XperienCentral credentials. See Logging in to XperienCentral for complete information on logging in.
